

Engineering

The Engineering Division reviews grading and drainage plans for subdivisions, planned communities, and for other development proposals. Within flood plains, Engineering reviews proposals for compliance with Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) regulations. Engineering coordinates with many agencies to review proposed street names and addressing assignments to provide accurate information to emergency service providers and to businesses and homeowners. Engineering works closely with the Surveying Division to review preliminary subdivision plats, natural features maps, and hillside reports for proposed developments. The Ada County Engineer is the supervisor of this division.
